What: Vancouver's annual Cherry Blossom Festival is a celebration of the city's gorgeous pink cherry trees and a welcome sight for the winter-weary Vancouverites. The Cherry Blossom Festival looks to show off close to 40,000 trees, many of which originated as gifts from Japan. The festival looks to express the city's gratitude while celebrating the beauty and joy that the blooms with the flowers. New to this year, festival organizers have made the point of asking anyone taking photos in neighbourhoods to be respectful when visiting.

When: April 4 to 28, 2019

Time: Various times

Where: Various locations throughout the city

Admission: Many free events and some ticketed events

Grouse Mountain Slush Cup 2018

What: Competitors, attired in their most ridiculous costume, attempt to cross a pool of slush on their skis or board. For onlookers in the "splash zone," bring your positive vibes and lively support to encourage the best performances from all participants. Participants will be able to hit the pond as many times as they want, and prizes will be given to the best costume, best trick, best crash, crowd favourite and more. Don't forget, creativity is key for our panel of judges.

When: Saturday, April 6, 2019

Time: Registration 10:30 am to 12:30 pm. Slush Cup from 1 pm to 4 pm.

Where: Grouse Mountain Resort – 6400 Nancy Greene Way, North Vancouver

Register: Online, $10

3rd Annual Richmond Cherry Blossom Festival

What: In its third year running, the festival celebrates the arrival of spring and the blooming of cherry blossoms. The festival, situated right beside the Fraser River, includes a day full of Japanese music, as well as traditional Japanese food and activities. Attendees can also expect traditional Japanese dance, Taiko drumming, and a number of talented musicians.

When: Sunday, April 7, 2019

Time: 11 am to 4 pm

Where: Garry Point Park – 12011 Seventh Avenue, Richmond

Admission: Free
